Message from the President

The fall has been, and will continue to be, a very busy time for Peninsula Section. We were thrilled to have Judy Collins speak and sing at our first program meeting this year. She inspired us with her personal triumphs and with her lifelong commitment to social activism. Her songs have always reflected her commitment to social and environmental justice and to racial and financial equality. As just one example, in 1964, she went to Mississippi to register voters. She has worked with many artists including Bob Dylan and she still represents UNICEF and participates in numerous other causes. Those who attended the personal giving reception for her were treated to a very special afternoon, as she performed a private concert – playing the piano, singing, and telling us more about her life and her activism. She has achieved so much!

Few of us have her talent, but all of us are able to make a difference – whether in the world or in just one person’s life. Through advocacy, a strategy for making social change, we try to make a difference that affects the lives of many. By helping to preserve affordable health care, by fighting against sex trafficking, by resisting oppression and by fighting to advance women’s empowerment, we try to change the world and to help many people. Individuals are helped through our many community services, where our volunteers work one on one to help one person at a time. Our volunteers always say that they receive more than they give. If you are bored, or looking for something to do in your free time, please call the office and ask to speak to the chairperson of advocacy or community services. It may change your life, as well as changing the lives of others. If your time is limited and you cannot volunteer right now, please remember that you can make a difference through your donations to NCJW Peninsula Section. Your donations fund our advocacy, education, and community service programs, which are more important now than ever.

MISSION STATEMENT

A FAITH IN THE FUTURE.
A BELIEF IN ACTION.[®]

The National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW) is a grassroots organization of volunteers and advocates who turn progressive ideals into action. Inspired by Jewish values, NCJW strives for social justice by improving the quality of life for women, children, and families and by safeguarding individual rights and freedoms.

Introducing... Myra Garber

Emerging Leader Award

ENID SCHWARZBAUM – Feature Editor

The lifeblood of NCJW Peninsula Section depends on the infusion of fresh ideas, and “roll up your sleeves” involvement of new members. Myra Garber has embodied those qualities in the relatively short time since she joined NCJW.

Dipping her toes in the Membership Committee and the Back 2 School Store Steering Committee, she joined the Peninsula Section's Board and found her niche as an active and involved member of the Advocacy Committee. Myra increased her bona fides as an advocate and activist by lobbying in Albany and Washington, supporting Planned Parenthood and registering people to vote. She visited the courts and provided awareness of sex trafficking so that it can be curbed. To increase her arsenal towards that goal, she attended the NCJW Washington Institute and NCJW conventions in St. Louis and Atlanta. This led to co-chairing the committee that developed a program for high school students: “Sexual Assault on College Campuses – Empowering Our Students.” She further extended her contribution to Peninsula Section as VP of Education and Jewish Affairs. It is obvious why Myra has earned the Emerging Leader Award.

Myra's professional career as an English and Reading teacher was the foundation of her desire to always give back. Not surprisingly, it led to becoming a union representative and union treasurer. Currently, she is VP of her school district's retiree group.

Myra and husband Carl are proud of their children, Alexis and Brian, and kvell naches from their grandchildren, Sara, Erik and Kaci.

“Myra increased her bona fides as an advocate and activist by lobbying in Albany and Washington.”

The International Day of the Girl Child

PAM SHELDEN – VP, Advocacy; Peninsula Section Generation Next Facilitator

Since its inception, when the United Nations proclaimed October 11 as the International Day of the Girl Child, Peninsula Section has worked to educate its Generation Next teens about the marginalization of young women in the US and around the globe.

Each year, one teen (a member of Peninsula Section's Generation Next, comprised of young people educated in grassroots advocacy) has written to national, state, and local officials asking the legislator to proclaim the day so as to recognize injustices that range from breast ironing and genital mutilation, to human trafficking and compromised education. In the past, such legislators as Senators Schumer and Gillibrand, Representatives Carolyn McCarthy and Kathleen Rice, have responded by recognizing the "day" through letters, citations, or proclamations.

The teens' efforts do not stop with proclamations. Through speaker announcements, posters, and classroom visits, the teens educate their peers about the issue...and in the case last year, our teen made such an effective presentation that her fellow classmates raised and sent money to the UN to shore up the efforts of the UN involvement.

This year, Rom Raviv, a Hewlett High School Senior, wrote to his legislators asking them to proclaim the day. Among the lawmakers who responded, State Senator Todd Kaminsky presented Rom with the Proclamation itself at Peninsula Section's first Program Meeting on September 19, 2017. Also in attendance were Dr. Ralph Marino, Superintendent, Hewlett-Woodmere Public Schools, and Mr. Jack Lenson, Interim Acting Principal, Hewlett HS. Rom, by the way, was the first male student I guided to speak out on behalf of girl children, a fact that I find particularly satisfying.

Peninsula Section could not be prouder of this effort! By educating our young people, we are implementing NCJW's commitment to improving the lives of women, children, and families and, at the same time, passing the advocacy mantle on to the next generation.

EmPOWER Girls: Before, During and After Crises

The world's 1.1 billion girls are a source of power, energy, and creativity – and the millions of girls in emergencies are no exception. Since 2012, October 11 has been marked as the International Day of the Girl. The day aims to highlight and address the needs and challenges girls face, while promoting girls' empowerment and the fulfillment of their human rights. It also marks the beginning of a year-long effort to spur global attention and action to the challenges and opportunities girls face before, during, and after crises.

The Many Faces of Sexual Assault

FERN LAMBROZA – Chair, Sexual Assault Awareness

Sexual assault can happen to anyone, anywhere, and at any time. It knows no age, gender, or socio-economic boundaries. The goal of NCJW Peninsula Section Sexual Assault Awareness Committee goal is to raise awareness of these crimes and to give a voice to the voiceless. In a series of articles, our committee will be describing different types of sexual assault, and where to find help.

Child Sexual Assault

Below are signs of child sexual abuse. Any one sign does not mean that a child was sexually abused, but the presence of several suggests that you begin asking questions and consider seeking help.

Older children may exhibit signs of depression, withdrawal, chemical abuse, recurrent physical complaints, severe headaches, cutting or burning oneself, and suicidal thoughts. Eating disorders, withdrawal from friends and truancy are some other warning signs.

Younger children may begin having nightmares and wetting the bed. They may cling, whine, and lose their appetites. They may also regress to infantile behaviors.

Genital pain, itching, swelling or bleeding, as well as a sexually transmitted disease in both older and younger children are indicators of sexual assault.

Acquaintance/Date Rape

Date or acquaintance rape is a sexual assault committed by a person known to the victim. The assailant could be a friend, a relative, a date, an employer, or a recent acquaintance.

Regardless of the circumstances surrounding the incident (such as drug or alcohol use), rape is a crime of violence that is punishable by law.

Date/Acquaintance Rape is one of the most under-reported violent criminal acts because many survivors do not realize that they've been sexually assaulted. Anytime a person forces, coerces, or manipulates another person to engage in sexual activity against their will or without their consent, that is sexual assault. Sexual assault is not sex. The perpetrator is motivated by a need to feel powerful by controlling, dominating, or humiliating another person.

Date/Acquaintance Rape is a problem in all communities. Anyone can be sexually assaulted regardless of their race, culture, gender, sexual orientation, abilities, or age.

Advocacy Film Series: “The Women’s Balcony”

Sunday, November 19 at 2:00 pm at Hewlett-Woodmere Public Library
Facilitator: Rabbi Bruce Ginsburg, Congregation Sons of Israel, Woodmere

The Women's Balcony is a charmingly lighthearted approach to a complicated subject: the role of women via religion in the Orthodox community. Exceedingly entertaining, the film is respectful of religious traditions while offering a compelling consideration of the respect that is due women as well. As Ettie puts it to her grandson (and as NCJW women well KNOW!), “God gave us minds of our own.”

Our Facilitator: Intelligent, literate, and compassionate, Rabbi Bruce Ginsburg is the perfect speaker to handle the Q and A that follows this screening.

Tickets: District 14 residents may pick up their tickets at the library beginning Wed., Nov. 8 from 10 am–7 pm. NCJW members may call the office, 516-569-3660, to reserve tickets and pick them up at 1:30 pm in the lobby of the Gold Theatre on the day of the screening.

Our Lecture Series Continues

1:30–3:30 pm at The Bristol
477 Hungry Harbor Road, North Woodmere
Coffee, cake and fruit will be served

ENL: English as a New Language

MARCIA ROTH – Chair, ENL District #14

Volunteers and staff attended the opening breakfast.

The opening breakfast of NCJW's ENL Program took place on September 25, sponsored by the Hewlett-Woodmere School District at the Woodmere Education Center. The meeting was attended by our dedicated NCJW volunteers; Dr. Mark Secaur, VP of Curriculum & Instruction; Caryn Bachar, Coordinator of the teachers; ENL teachers; Dena Stein, VP of Community Services and Marcia Roth, Chair ENL Program.

Discussion included the variety of children coming from many countries and backgrounds. The volunteers tutor in the grade school, middle school and high school. In the lower grades, the volunteers assist the teacher or sit with the child while the class is in session. They assist where the child needs help, working alongside the teacher. The program creates very strong relationships, with the children benefitting from this extra attention and assistance. The administration and teachers are very grateful and appreciate all the extra help from our volunteers. They love having them in the school with the children. This experience is very rewarding.

Anyone wishing to join, please contact Marcia Roth at 516-569-3510.

SULAM-LI: What is it all About?

DENA STEIN – VP, Community Services

The Religious School for Jewish Children with Special Needs

The Hebrew word SULAM means "ladder". Just as a ladder enables a person to reach heights that he or she could not reach alone, this program enables school-age Jewish children with special needs to reach new heights in their Jewish education.

Meeting on Sunday mornings, at the Oceanside JCC, the SULAM-LI staff transmits the beauty of our Jewish heritage using a wide range of instructional techniques and curriculum methods. Music, cooking, crafts and computers all round out the educational experience. Class sizes are small and all learning is carried out in small groups or individually, allowing students to maximize their potential. Students and their families also participate in many holiday celebrations together, including parties for Chanukah and Purim, an annual Model Seder and a Shabbat celebration rounding out this educational experience.

In 2005, seven local synagogues were participating and funding the program. SULAM-LI fit all of NCJW's goals and mission and so Peninsula Section became a loyal sponsor. We voted to contribute funds to annually support the musical program. NCJW Peninsula Section has a seat on SULAM-LI's board and a representative in all aspects of their operations. We continue to support all facets of this program with volunteers. Our ongoing fiscal support is a proud affirmation of the importance of an education for all Jewish children regardless of, or in spite of their abilities.

In addition, we offer a wonderful volunteer experience for students who require Community Service, or for anyone wishing to enrich his or her life. To volunteer, please contact Libby Adler 516-474-1500 or laigle631@yahoo.com.

5TELC Graduation

ENID SCHWARZBAUM – Chair, 5TELC

Twenty-one four-year olds dressed in their best finery and wearing mortarboards with their names in large letters, ascended the first rung of the ladder on their educational journey into Kindergarten.

On a sunny, festive August 31, graduation took place in the award-winning play-garden of the Five Towns Early Learning Center (5TELC). It was attended by beaming relatives and friends of the children, who recorded this important event on iPhones and other hi-tech cameras. The significance of this celebration was evident by the guests' attention and applause as each child was called by name and received an official Certificate of Graduation from the Director, Pepper Robinson. It is a bitter-sweet experience for the staff because of the close relationships that developed between the teachers and children. These have ended but every child's unique personality will be remembered. It is the American Dream in action and my personal favorite day.

The joyful occasion was capped with a light barbecue and an exciting raffle drawing of many impressive gift baskets.

Graduates proudly received their certificates.

In July 2018, The NCJW Peninsula and South Shore Sections will be hosting the 6th Annual Back 2 School Store

Eight hundred low income and special needs children will be invited to shop with a personal shopper. Children will shop, at no cost, for their favorite styles and colors of clothing, sneakers, winter coats and a backpack full of supplies. While children shop, parents are invited to a Family Resource Center stocked with valuable information and samples.
